Title: Standardized Warfarin Monitoring Decreases Adverse Drug Reactions

Version: 1 Date: 12 Feb 2019

Reviewer: Peter Avery

Reviewer's report:

Original comment 1. I am still not convinced that Poisson generalised regression is the most appropriate method of analysis but given that other methods of analysis give similar results, I do not insist on a change of analysis.

Original comment 2. Only overall p-values are given in the table. Subgroup p-values are only given in the text. I would recommend only discussing significant changes in the text and not mentioning non-significant changes.

Additional comment: Line 176. I think it should say 'TTR was significantly higher' not 'the change in TTR was significantly higher'.

Are the methods appropriate and well described?
