Reviewer’s report

Version: 0 Date: 18 Jun 2017

Reviewer: Daniel R. Ganger

Reviewer’s report:

1- Central scar presence was seen more often in larger lesions on both CT and MR. You state that there were 21 patients with histopathological examination. How many did not have central scar?

2- Although this paper is on FNH, the number of additional lesions discovered by MR vs CT was significant (45 more). Can you comment whether the radiologist could find in retrospect the lesions missed on CT?

3- In page 7, line 22, you use the wording radiological symptoms, which is not appropriate. I recommend using different wording (signs).

4- Enhancement in HBP was an important criterion when cirrhotics were excluded (page 7, line 24). How many FNH were seen in cirrhotics?
