Title: Autoantibody Detection is Not Recommended for Chronic Pancreatitis: A Cross-sectional Study of 557 Patients

Version: 0 Date: 15 Nov 2018

Reviewer: Eiji Miyoshi

Reviewer's report:

This manuscript describes the investigation of the usefulness of autoantibodies to diagnose chronic pancreatitis. The authors determined serum levels of several kinds of autoantibodies in 557 patients with chronic pancreatitis. However, the authors failed to find useful autoantibody biomarkers. These findings seem not to be worth for publication for many gastroenterological researchers.
