Title: A case of ectopic pancreas in the ileum presenting as obscure gastrointestinal bleeding and abdominal pain

Version: 1 Date: 15 Jan 2019

Reviewer: Jianfeng Yang

Reviewer’s report:

The authors describe a case of ectopic pancreas in the ileum presenting as obscure gastrointestinal bleeding and episodes of abdominal pain. The case is interesting, however, it's not the first one to report the association between gastrointestinal bleeding and ectopic pancreas located in the ileum. Besides, some points should be raised from the authors:

--In abstract "59-year-old man had 9 months history of intermittent melena", but in case presentation "A 59-year-old man had 3 months history of intermittent melena", please clarify.

-There are some spelling and grammatical mistakes in the manuscript, which needs correction.

- The title is not very suitable for this case, its scope is too broad and not attractive.

-Discussion should be enriched by discussing clinical presentation, investigations, treatment, prognosis and complications as available in the literature about ectopic pancreas.
