Title: Syphilitic hepatitis: A case report and review of the literature

Version: 2 Date: 12 Aug 2019

Reviewer: Terese Lea Katzenstein

Reviewer's report:

The manuscript has improved. I think that the authors should mention that the clinical manifestations were clearly indicative of syphilis - rash involving palms and soles - and that a syphilis test should have been performed. If this would have been done there would have been no need for the liver biopsy. The manuscript still need English revision, i.e. the background section of the abstract.
