1. This is a proposal to utilize a mixed methods approach to evaluate The Schools for Health for Elderly in Barcelona

2. The main comparisons are between two intervention and two control neighborhoods

3. More information about the details of the intervention and its implementation will be important to understand the evaluation proposed

4. The authors will need to explain how they will control for population differences between the neighborhoods (SES characteristics such as income, family support, location, availability of other community services) as neighborhood selection may influence participant reporting independent of engagement in The Schools for Health for Elderly

5. I would recommend changing the subject headings of the manuscript i.e. Planned Methodology, Discussion and Implications of the Planned Analysis (not results or conclusions) so that the leadership is aware that the article is a protocol and not a study
