Title: Prevalence of Potentially Inappropriate Medication Use in Older Drivers

Version: 0 Date: 29 Mar 2019

Reviewer's report:

congratulations for this interesting paper
Some minor comments below :
- could you distinguish between long acting and short acting benzodiazépines?
- could you add information about pims of drugs that have shown increased risk for car accidents. The link between Pims and drivers is not developed enough. I suggest to add a subanalysis showing the proportion of patient who are taking pims of drugs known to cause car accidents.
- please explain why the factor 'suburban, rural… origin of the patient' is relevant to this analysis. Does previous literature showed a link with PIMs or are you showing this because of the "drinving" aspect? Again, as the concepts of driving and the pims are not enough linked in the paper, this factor seem unusal to assess in a "pims" study.

Are the methods appropriate and well described?
If not, please specify what is required in your comments to the authors.
