1. Abbrevations should not be used in the titles and beginning of sentences

2. I can not understand why authors recommend tigecycline to the patient who is stable, and low risk patients and located Hospital A (Table 3). Authors mentioned that Hospital A had predominance of resistance to 3GC among nosocomial Enterobacteriaceae (>20%), and low rate of resistance to ceftazidime and carbapenems among nosocomial Pseudomonas. Because there is not predominance of carbapenemase producing microorganisms, tigecycline should not be commenced empirically. Tigecycline should be preserved for use in carbapenemase producing microorganisms.
