Title: Compound heterozygous LPIN2 pathogenic variants in a patient with Majeed syndrome with recurrent fever and severe neutropenia: case report

Version: 0 Date: 23 Sep 2019

Reviewer: Eda Tahir Turanli

Reviewer's report:

This is a new paper describing compound heterozygosity for LPIN2 gene in Majeed syndrome showing heterogeneity in clinical symptoms. Two further points may increase the interest of the readers; authors should emphasize the parental segregation of the alleles- in the text - that the patient is compound and second point is that the functional consequences of the variations should be discussed.

Are the methods appropriate and well described?
