Title: Disseminated cryptococcosis presenting initially as lower limb cellulitis in a renal transplant recipient - A Case Report

Version: 0 Date: 14 Jun 2017

Reviewer: Manuel Pestana

Reviewer’s report:

This interesting case report illustrates the need to consider opportunistic infections in immunosuppressed patients with skin changes not responding to conventional treatment. It is also suggested that the skin may be a portal of entry for disseminated cryptococcal disease in the absence of systemic symptoms. The manuscript is well written and the discussion appropriately addresses the subject. I have no further comments.
