Reviewer's report:

STATISTICAL REVIEWER ASSESSMENT:

Is the study design appropriate for the research question (considering whether the analyzed population accurately reflects the design and whether you see any problems with control/comparison groups, e.g., likely confounders)?

No - there are minor issues

Are methodologies adequate and well implemented (considering whether assumptions are addressed and whether analyses are robust)?

No - there are minor issues

Are the analyses adequately communicated (considering whether reporting details are adequate and whether figures and tables are well labeled and described)?

Yes - important reporting details are present, analyses are adequately communicated, figures and tables are well labeled and described

Does the interpretation accurately reflect the analyses without overstatement (considering whether limitations/bias are acknowledged and whether accurate descriptors, e.g., 'significant', are used)?

Yes - interpretation accurately reflects analyses, limitations/bias are acknowledged, accurate descriptors are used

Could an appropriately REVISED version of this work represent a statistically sound contribution?

Probably - with minor revisions

STATISTICAL REVIEWER COMMENTS:

This manuscript focused on determining the potential factors of a complex illness called Myalgic Encephalomyelitis/Chronic Fatigue Syndrome (ME/CFS). To this end, the authors tried to show an application of multivariate logistic regression with a data collected on a standardized questionnaire about a complex illness. The authors have applied a novel methodology (multivariate logistic regression) which is a different approach from the traditional ways applied by other researchers in the area. This is what the authors have done well. I have suggested several corrections on my previous review. The authors did a good job by attending almost all of my suggestions. The new version sounds more correct in terms of statistics and methodology.
