Reviewer’s report

Title: `Whose Shoes? ` Can an educational board game engage Ugandan men in pregnancy and childbirth?

Version: 1 Date: 03 Dec 2017

Reviewer: Jeremy Oats

Reviewer's report:
This is an important concept that merits development for low-income settings.
How representative of the true target recipients are Ugandan men living in a high-income setting i.e. the UK. Presumably education, disposable income, health knowledge could be quite different?

In the Abstract suggest adding morbidity as this is a much larger component of poor outcomes and this programme should assist with this.

In Background, make clear the first estimate of maternal deaths is world wide.
It would be helpful to the reader to have much more detail of the actual content of the cards and messages.
