This is an interesting paper which I enjoyed reading. Pretty brave to shunt a fetus when the mother was so sick. My main feedback is that in some parts it is clear the paper is written by someone with English as a second language. In particular I suggest that the first few paragraphs of case 2 are reviewed by a native english language speaker to get the nuance correct. In terms of the meta-analysis I would have preferred to have a comment that allows for the fact that in the majority of hydrops cases where there is no cause identified (unlike these two cases) there is a very high mortality for the etus and when there is also MS the maternal situation must take priority.

Are the methods appropriate and well described?
