Title: Process evaluation of a peer-led antenatal breastfeeding class for fathers: Perceptions of facilitators and participants

Version: 0 Date: 22 Nov 2018

Reviewer's report:

Thank you for the opportunity to read and review your manuscript. Research involving fathers across the perinatal period is an important area, and this research is all the more valuable given the current breastfeeding rates.

I have included a PDF attachment with comments throughout for your consideration.

In brief, I believe for a journal such as this (and considering the target audience), I feel that more emphasis and detail should be on the fathers experiences / outcomes, rather than the experiences of the volunteers. Although this is an important aspect, it would be better served in a social sciences journal. Another key area that could be enhanced, and subsequently strengthen your research report, is the methods. Please see more specific comments in attachment.

Overall, well done on a successful intervention.
