Title: Preferences for aspects of antenatal and newborn screening: a systematic review

Version: 0 Date: 17 Mar 2019

Reviewer: Alessandra Familiari

Reviewer's report:

The manuscript is interesting per se and well written, the methodology is clear and the discussion is in line with the results.

My big concern is whether this topic is in line with the aims of the journal and my feeling is that this paper is not of sufficiently high priority for publication in BMC Pregnancy and Childbirth. Although the paper may be of some interest to a limited circle of our readers, I would give priority to papers potentially affecting the clinical management of pregnancy disorders.

I would therefore reject the paper.

Thank you very much and best wishes
