Reviewer's report:

Dear Author

The manuscript has valuable results, but needs minor edition as below:

In method section:

The authors should explain how the peripartum blood loss was estimated. There are several ways for the hemorrhage estimation (line 9).

In results section:

The title of table 1 is better change to demographic and reproductive information. And it suggest that these factors be compared between the two groups statistically (induction and spontaneous labor).

As author mentioned, some important information are not presented. They include: reason for induction of labor, duration of induction, doses of oxytocin was used, bishop score condition, duration and doses of LMWH used, thus it is suggested these information present in a separate table and conclusion be revised according the data.
