Reviewer's report:

Thank you very much for addressing my previous comments. These additional explanations are very helpful in understanding the study. However, there are still some issues with the statistical analysis.

Regarding my previous comment (3) on the clustering, could you please include some more detail on the findings on the comparison between models using both community and household clusters and community clusters alone.

Regarding comment (4): Thank you for providing more detail on the multivariable model. It is not clear why every variable was included in this multivariable model. This makes the model more complex than is necessary and can cause issues like multicollinearity or problems with sparse data. The multivariable analysis should be repeated using a stepwise approach to identify which variables should be included when building the model. Furthermore, please then provide more information in the methods section on how the multivariable regression model was built.
