Version: 1 Date: 31 May 2018

Reviewer: Jian Guan

Reviewer's report:

The article described a case of extensive cranial hemangioma of the skull in a breast cancer patient, which could be easily misdiagnosed as skull metastasis. Meanwhile, author has reviewed several literatures. I recommend that the manuscript should ask a native English speaking colleague to copyedit the paper. Author should summarize the characteristics of extensive cranial hemangioma based on literatures. Additionally, manuscript should increase the research development of etiology according to recent studies.
