I have attached a copy of the manuscript with my editing suggestions added into it as well some general concerns regarding the manuscript.

My overall concern why did the person present with 2 years progressive history of visual loss? In Europe/US this would not happen which makes this case difficult for readers to relate too for this very reason.

At most it would be months in Europe perhaps weeks even.

Also the management seems very slow and passive compared to Western standards. Why the 1 year gap before enucleation was performed given the prior imaging findings?

I do not feel there is sufficient new information in this case to warrant publication. The involvement of trabecular meshwork is a very minor feature of this case and certainly on its own does not warrant publication. Apart from that there is nothing else in the case.

Also the written English does not flow really well. One can tell it has been written by someone whose English is not his first language. Not a specific criticism just a general thing I noticed.

Level of interest: An article of insufficient interest to warrant publication in a scientific/medical journal

Quality of written English: Needs some language corrections before being published

Statistical review: No, the manuscript does not need to be seen by a statistician.
