Title: Treating childhood intermittent distance exotropia: a qualitative study of decision making

Version: 2
Date: 6 July 2015
Reviewer: Alistair Fielder

Reviewer's report:

The authors have responded well to the various comments of the 3 reviewers

I am intrigued that neither clinicians nor parents mentioned letters to GP etc as a line of communication. This is perhaps, a limitation of this line of research - I am not criticising - but patients will not suggest things they have not heard of

Level of interest: An article of importance in its field
