Reviewer’s report:

This a very interesting and very well written paper describing an unusual case of infectious scleritis after local injection of triamcinolone. I have just one comment:

Since infectious scleritis is usually managed with systemic therapy, the authors should make a comment on their initial therapeutical option in this case, which was topical antifungals alone.

Are the methods appropriate and well described?
If not, please specify what is required in your comments to the authors.

Yes

Does the work include the necessary controls?
If not, please specify which controls are required in your comments to the authors.

Unable to assess

Are the conclusions drawn adequately supported by the data shown?
If not, please explain in your comments to the authors.

Yes

Are you able to assess any statistics in the manuscript or would you recommend an additional statistical review?
If an additional statistical review is recommended, please specify what aspects require further assessment in your comments to the editors.
