This paper refers to a primary care of Outcome patients in concerning a positive communication about Mental Health. This is a perspective of Psychology area that means respect and quality of life with patients who have Mental Disorders.

This article provides relevant information about the care of healthcare professionals who deal with patients with mental disorders.

1) I'd say just to change those terms to not be repetitive in the text: Introduction: lines 50, 51 "A systematic review synthesizing these descriptions of personal…change for "Study about these descriptions…

2) Introduction, Discussion and conclusion - I would make a more objective and scientific description Just. The paragraphs are great and this makes reading tiresome for such clear information.
