Title: Research on the health of people who experience imprisonment in Canada: A scoping review

Version: 1 Date: 7 April 2015

Reviewer’s report:

The article deals with a rather good idea, to highlight the lack of research studies on specific health matters concerning imprisoned people. I am not very enthusiastic with the idea, but I must recognize that the work is well written, structured and sound. The methods are clearly described (eligibility criteria, search strategy, e.t.c.) and the study period is long enough so as to give worthily results. I am also satisfied with the way the results and discussion are shown. I have no corrections to suggest.
