Reviewer’s report

Title: Clinical determinants of the severity of Middle East respiratory syndrome (MERS): A systematic review and meta-analysis

Version: 0 Date: 31 Oct 2016

Reviewer: Charles Palenik

Reviewer’s report:

Interesting analyses of the information.

The major concern for me is (as the authors conceded) that some cases were at least more than once. This could have been 10%-20%. Using data generated by others and combining them to form a consistent report is difficult. Multiple counting of cases weakens any article statement. How can this be minimized? What is an acceptable amount/percent of multiple counting?

Are the methods appropriate and well described?
