Title: Maternal cell phone use in early pregnancy and child's language, communication and motor skills at 3 and 5 years: The Norwegian Mother and Child Cohort Study (MoBa)

Reviewer's report:

The authors have adequately addressed the review comments. I still find it unnecessary to paraphrase the categories, but understand that the authors want to be consistent with Birks et al. I appreciate the effort the authors have done with the new exposure categorization, taking into account duration of cell phone calls, even though they have not included it in the article. Regarding the supplementary figure 1, the authors might have misunderstood my suggestion; to present the OR for each outcome variable jointly. No further comments to the authors.
