Reviewer's report:

Thank you for the opportunity to review this manuscript. Please see my comments below.

1. The article described an outbreak investigation following report of fatal organophosphate (OP) poisonings. This article followed CARE guidelines and submitted as case report; however, content is better suited as a research article than a case report. You can remove word "case report" from the title and re-submit paper as a "research article".

2. Abstract, background: replace "We investigated ……" with "Tororo District Health investigated…." as it is not clear in the beginning who is investigating.

3. Timely decontamination and use of pralidoxime are important in the management of life-threatening OP poisonings. You can include this information from medical records.
