PEER REVIEWER COMMENTS:

GENERAL COMMENTS: This qualitative study conducted 10 focus groups of staff from four different organisations in the UK in order to understand organizational-specific barriers and enablers of physical activity. Although the methodology looks fine and the findings are sensible, I do not see much additional knowledge gain from this study. I believe that this work could have contributed a lot more to the literature if some forms of organization-based measurement developed from the qualitative findings is proposed.

REQUESTED REVISIONS:

Redo the qualitative data analysis and propose some forms of measurement for assessing organization-based physical activity situation.
