Manuscript "Side lying during nebulisation can significantly improve apical deposition in healthy adults and adults with mild cystic fibrosis lung disease: a randomised crossover trial" report study results on how patients position during the inhalation influence deposition of inhaled drug. It is interesting and important questions, particularly for this patient group where inhaled medications are widely used and very important part of the treatment. The study is well designed, and data well presented. It is important contribution to our knowledge about treatment with inhaled drugs in this group of patients with different degree of lung involvement and diseases progression.
