Title: Patient Driven Care in the Management of Prostate Cancer: Analysis of the United States Military Healthcare System

Version: 0 Date: 12 Apr 2017

Reviewer: Luigi Quaresima

Reviewer’s report:

This is a well written article and the statistical analysis is good. Unfortunately the exposure is not particularly clear.

Moreover the work not gives a fundamental contribution to the scientific community "We observed that patient preferences for MIRP and treatment at a high volume center induces a demand for greater utilization of MIRP and transfers to civilian facilities despite financial incentives at military facilities. These findings are particularly important in our current resource-constrained healthcare environment" but rather a Self-criticism at military facilities, less equiped, besides, with minimally invasive surgery.
