Title: Traumatic penile amputation: A case report

Version: 2 Date: 06 Sep 2017

Reviewer: Matthias D Hofer

Reviewer's report:

The concerns regarding the original submission have been mostly addressed to the author's ability. Pathologic information would have been of advantage but a pathologic analysis of the lost part of the penis was not possible. We still don't know more about why the anastomoses failed and whether the author's approach would have been successful with different circumstances.

Overall, the revisions are acceptable.
