Title: Lipoma Of Columella with septal extension in Pai syndrome: report of a rare case

Version: 0 Date: 14 Nov 2016

Reviewer: Yusuf Coban

Reviewer’s report:

This case may be a variant of Pai syndrome. The authors has focused on the lipoma at anteior septal region.I clearly see that there is median cleft in the upper lip of the child.

I advise the authors to review the literature about Pai syndrome.I also advise them to make more investigative search for intracranial anomaly by having computer tomographic examination.If possible it would be useful to have karyotpe analysis.After having more data they should disscuss this interesting case.
