Reviewer's report:

Comments to the authors; This manuscript describes the tendency of utilization of incretin-based medications for patients with type 2 DM in Italian regions. The manuscript is well described and considered, however, the information provided is limited, and more detailed tendency may be available if the authors reanalyze the data. How much percentage of DPP4i has been used during the research period among all oral anti-diabetic agents. In addition durability of effectiveness of DPP4i and GLP-1RA may be assessed if the authors reanalyze the database (Diabetologia (2015) 58 (Suppl 1):S389-S389).

Minor comments; several misspellings are scattered throughout the manuscript.
