Title: Insulin autoimmune syndrome induced by exogenous insulin injection: a four-case series

Reviewer's report:

Overall it is a good manuscript with extensive literature review. My only concern is this manuscript needs editing by native english speaker or by someone who is involved in scientific writing as the way of presentation of cases is bit weak. For example Case 1: Author should present complete history of patient especially the comorbidities and the oral treatment used. Since the patient was diabetic for ten years, it is important to know about basic case information in the beginning. Author has mentioned later about renal insufficiency, it should be mentioned in the beginning along with other co-morbidities.

Line 4: Recently LISPRO has been added, this statement is vague. The way author has mentioned, it seems that due to LISPRO patient had renal insufficiency and that's why LISPRO has been changed to other treatment. There should be clarity in text.

Authors should follow a uniform pattern to present their cases, a good example of case presentation can be following article:

https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC5118974/.

Lastly authors should justify need of this case series review since there is sufficient data about insulin autoimmune syndrome an its cases in literature.
