Dear authors,

you have picked an often discussed topic. The date you presented in regards to your pancreas outcomes after T1DM and T2DM is interesting and illustrates that your institution is able to perform both.

However, the kidney comparison group is not adequate as a control group; recipients and donors significantly older, dialysis time longer etc. - essentials to take into account. Please provide a matched control group before you draw any conclusions. According to the results you presented in the current manuscript, someone can conclude that your kidney cohort is doing significantly worse than anyone else in your paper.

In addition: Delayed graft function (DGF) of the kidney was defined as the need for dialysis at hospital time but without further need after discharge - this is not a correct, internationally used, definition. Please provide a legitimize one.

Are the methods appropriate and well described?
If not, please specify what is required in your comments to the authors.

Yes

Does the work include the necessary controls?
