Yes - current version is technically sound

PEER REVIEWER COMMENTS:

GENERAL COMMENTS: A robust methodology has been used. Only other category that could have been included in the interview process would be general society/parents. That would reflect opinions of society.

ADDITIONAL REQUESTS/SUGGESTIONS:

I am not certain if what is written as abortion law in the country can be called liberal. It is legal only under certain conditions which probably were not applicable to any of the women interviewed unless psychological distress was indicated as the reason for abortion.

In the discussion I think need to stress about the need for reproductive health education at secondary and tertiary level and health services for adolescents.
