Reviewer's report:

The manuscript entitled "Anti-cancer effects of Ajwa dates (Phoenix dactylifera L) in diethylnitrosamine induced hepatocellular carcinoma in Wistar rats" has certainly elements of interest which makes it worth considering for publication in MBC complementary and alternative medicine.

The in vivo HCC anticancer properties of edible plants like those Ajwa dates are really interesting and worth study. The paper is well prepared with a sufficient methodology approach that is supported by data. However, there are minor editing aspects and typographical mistakes that need correction. Such corrections are listed in the attached file. After performing these minor corrections, I recommend acceptance.
