Title: Avoiding pitfalls in determining antimicrobial activity of plant extracts and publishing the results

Version: 1 Date: 23 Apr 2019

Reviewer: Vassya Bankova

Reviewer's report:

This article is an important contribution to the field of antimicrobial studies of plant extracts. It is well-written, it is critical, detailed and exhaustive; it is also timely because so many articles appear in this field and the practical results are so slim. I believe that this article will help many researchers to improve their approach to the study of antimicrobial plant extracts.
