Title: Indigenous health: Designing a clinical orientation program valued by learners

Version: 0 Date: 05 Dec 2016

Reviewer: Maree Toombs

Reviewer's report:

This study reports that an Indigenous health program delivered to medical students by Indigenous academics is deemed valuable by medical students. This is a well articulated and scientifically sound paper. Data and tables have been well presented and described. It is an important piece of work that will assist many medical Schools who struggle with evidenced based knowledge to inform better practice and experiences for medical students.
