Title: Perceived Medical School stress of undergraduate medical students predicts academic performance. An observational study

Version: 2  Date: 05 Nov 2017

Reviewer: Lisa Lampe

Reviewer's report:

This is a well written research report of interest to the medical education community. Despite the effect sizes I do wonder what a difference of one or two points on the PMSS would look like in the real world, but that might be a question for another study.
