Reviewer's report

Title: Improving students' learning environment by DREEM: An educational experiment in an Iranian medical sciences university (2011-2016).

Reviewer's report:

While the research is good, language issues persist. This paper does need a further revision for readability. It is clear that various sections were written by different authors. The writing on Page 2, lines 18 to 34 are well written but the remainder is not as good. There is also the problem that everything written before this section is simply a different (and referenced) way of explaining the same material as in Page 2, lines 18-34. This needs to be looked at before this paper can be accepted.
