Reviewer's report:

Sir,
The article requires to be made concise.

1. Title is too long and verbose. It needs to be made concise.
2. The results section consists statistics related content which is irrelevant. For example: giving kurtosis and other parameters for convincing that the data was non parametric is not needed.
3. The information provided in the graphs and tables are repetitive. The same information is also provided in text form. Please remove the duplicated reporting of results in the manuscript.
4. In the conclusion section, it is mentioned that the results of this study has important implications on certain domains. Please specify which are these implications and put this section in the Discussion part.
5. P=0.000 should be reported as P<0.0001
6. In the introduction section, it is not very clear why such a study is important.

Thanks
