Title: Perceptions about trust: A phenomenographic study of clinical supervisors in occupational therapy

Version: 0 Date: 09 Sep 2019

Reviewer: Kevin Ramey

Reviewer's report:

While the authors do include the years of experience for subjects, they do not include the number of students supervised. Trust in students could be affected by the number of students supervised over time.

Including subjects with 6 months of experience could affect responses. A new professional who is inexperienced could develop trust differently that someone who have seen multiple students over a number of years.
