Reviewer's report:

This paper is well written. It describes the design and successful implementation of an intensive care information system (ICIS) in a 14-bed Respiratory ICU in a major hospital in China. The study is well done. I don't have any major issues with the paper. There are two grammar issues that need to be fixed.

On page 13 lines 21-22. This sentence doesn't look quite right: "As the product was seen as a direct translation of paper records to electronic records, quite different from what the nurses wanted."

On page 14 lines 4-5. In this sentence "Only after a module was built, satisfactorily passed unit test and user test, would the development progress to the next module."", something like "and has" should be added after "built" after removing the comma there.
