Version: 1 Date: 19 May 2019

Reviewer's report:

Thank you for including the 'track-changes' version of the original submission -- it makes it so much easier to see the evolution of the manuscript and the quality of the responses to the previous reviewers comments. All in all this is a well-done manuscript and the revisions based on previous reviews are appropriate for the most part. It's been a pleasure to read and review and represents an important step forward in understanding and assessing patient preference studies across a variety of decision-making opportunities.

I have uploaded my annotated version of the manuscript that primarily addresses issues of readability of some sentences and paragraphs, including grammar and punctuation.
