Title: Influences on participant reporting in the World Health Organisation drugs exposure pregnancy registry; a qualitative study

Version: 1 Date: 26 May 2014

Reviewer's report:

This is a very well written study, thank you. My comments are very minor and include the following:

The question is well defined and this is a descriptive and appropriately described study. The data is sound but would benefit from some restructuring within the results section (e.g. more tables).

The study highlights deficient areas of knowledge in the perinatal care of low-middle resource countries and defines further areas of research to improve our understanding of traditional medicine and the cross-cultural barriers impeding some women's access to equitable health care.
