Title: Maternal Health Care Use among Married Women in Hossaina, Ethiopia

Version: 5 Date: 4 June 2015

Reviewer’s report:

The manuscript is well written. However, there are coming nothing new and it is contributing no new knowledge in the growing filed related to this topic.

There are countless manuscripts out there that describe the link between economic and educational variables and maternal healthcare use especially in developing countries. One of the significant review is:

Diamond-Smith D, Sudhinarasert M. Drivers of facility deliveries in Africa and Asia: regional analyses using the demographic and health surveys.

So while, technically, this paper is good, it would be substantially improved if there was a new angle or some new way of thinking about exploring the data. For example, the inclusion of '5As of Access' to look at service utilization.

Level of interest: An article whose findings are important to those with closely related research interests

Quality of written English: Needs some language corrections before being published

Statistical review: Yes, and I have assessed the statistics in my report.
