Reviewer's report:

This is an interesting paper that addresses a contemporary and vexing problem. The article is well written and reads easily. The various sections are detailed and lead the reader to a good understanding of the paper. No controls were included, but the study design did not need these.

Please write out the names of the states and territories or give the abbreviations when introduced. The quality of the figures were not good and could not be read easily. I suggest ensuring that these can be easily read.
