Reviewer's report:

This is an interesting and well written paper. However, I think that it would improve the paper if you were to explain the purpose for including the different groups of participants in the research was - what they were expected to contribute. In the reporting of the findings from the interviews with the district managers I think you need to explain why you asked them about how the service is provided, the referral systems etc. Is this because there is no clearly written descriptions of this or because you wanted to see if they knew what the rules and regulations where? What would be of interest is the extent to which the managers thought the rules and regulations are followed and if not why not. Also in this section it is unclear if all the managers agreed on the answers, some of them or only a few.

Also was the research given ethical approval by an ethics committee?
