Title: Perceptions about Iranian-Kurds' Ethnic-Inequality in Health

Version: 0 Date: 26 Feb 2017

Reviewer's report:

This is a very relevant paper, well-written and nicely organized. Moreover, the study is well-designed and the authors discuss the methodology sufficiently. Even the conclusions section provides important insights. Its primary shortcoming at this Point is the short length and absence of depth in the presentation of findings. Given the substantial qualitative materials gathered, I expect a much more thorough presentation of the findings. These should be both analytically and empirically more substantial. This requires major revisions as the authors must return to the data and develop a thorough analysis if they have not already done so. I am willing to Review the paper again when such a presentation of the findings is included.
