Reviewer’s report

Title: Voluntary stopping of eating and drinking: Is medical support ethically justified?

Version: 1 Date: 28 Jul 2017

Reviewer: Ben White

Reviewer's report:

As is to be expected when tackling issues such as these, there are different schools of thought about VSED e.g. as to how conduct should be characterised and what constitutes causation. The authors have engaged carefully with the issues raised during the review process and in their revisions, the authors have clarified their position and made clear their reasoning for their conclusions. I support publication of this paper as revised.
